CARUTHERSVILLE — Trial of Kenneth Dewayne Johnson, 23, New Madrid, charged with felonious assault with an automobile, has been reset for Sept. 5 in circuit court. The trial has been set for today.

A motion to remand the case, filed by Johnson, was taken under advisement Tuesday by Judge William L. Ragland.

Charges against Johnson stem from the Aug. 12, 1968, death of Gary Lynn Higginson, New Madrid youth, who was struck by a car while driving a motorcycle in a New Madrid street.

Salvage Yard Operator Arrested

VAN BUREN, Mo. (AP) — A salvage yard operator who failed to appear in Federal Court at Indianapolis, Ind. Tuesday on federal auto theft charges will be tried in Van Buren Saturday on state charges of vehicle theft.

Dallas R. Delay, 30, of Van Buren, was arrested by the Missouri Highway Patrol Wednesday night in Poplar Bluff, Mo., under a federal bench warrant issued by U.S. Dist. Judge William Steckler of Indianapolis.

Delay and Donald W. Rogers, 23, who operates an auto body shop in Poplar Bluff, were indicted by a federal grand jury in Indianapolis July 10. They were to have been arraigned Tuesday on four counts of transporting and selling stolen automobiles in interstate commerce each.

Rogers was in federal custody in Indianapolis but Delay was free under bond, authorities said he was taken into custody at Rogers' home in Poplar Bluff.

The federal indictment alleges that cars were stolen in Missouri and identifying numbers altered to match numbers on titles from wrecked vehicles. The indictment said the cars were sold at auction in Indianapolis. Authorities say the state charges against Delay involve the theft of an over-the-road tractor from Elfrink Truck Line of St. Louis and of a dump truck from a Poplar Bluff dealership.

Blast Injures

Bloomfield Boy

BLOOMFIELD — A 19-year-old youth was burned Thursday when a road oil distributor exploded on the city waterworks lot.

James McRoy, 19, an employee of the City of Bloomfield and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin McRoy, reportedly was checking a gauge on the machine when it exploded.

Mayor Vernon Taylor and Water Commissioner Scott Bolin, standing near the distributor, escaped injury. It was reported that the oil was heating in the machine in preparation for the day's work when the accident occurred about 8:30 a.m.

McRoy sustained oil burns on one arm and some of his hair was burned off. The concussion also caused a severe nose bleed.

The injured youth was taken to a Dexter physician for treatment.

Rodeo Queen Bears Mark Of Royalty-She Admires Subjects

By SUSAN SHEMWELL
Miss Charline Freeman, 1969 Jaycee rodeo queen, is getting used to horses again this week after being thrown Memorial Day.

She has had plenty of opportunity to be around horses while presiding over the 17th annual rodeo celebrations.

"I have been coming around in Western boots and jeans almost every day all week," she said.

Miss Freeman, 17, has appeared on five television shows: The Early Bird Show, Breakfast Show, The Hour, Dance Party and Popeye; in parades and has been introduced at the rodeo arena.

On Flossie, the horse Jaycees chose for her official mount,

Miss Freeman said she does not mind dust, wind and heat that cowboys and rodeo queens have to endure.

A Girl Scout, she says she enjoys getting outside, pitching a tent and "making do with what there is." She has camped out a few times this summer at Kentucky Lake and Big Spring.

The rodeo queen has been watching people watching her while she has presided over festivities this week, at a parade Wednesday and at the rodeo yesterday.

"Kids look up at me on the horse like they think I am going to reach down and grab them," she laughed.

"They they say in scared little voices, 'Are you the rodeo queen?'" she added.

One young queen watcher brought a few royal chuckles this week when he sympathized with her sitting alone on a big horse. "Too bad they don't have a king," he said.

Besides watching crowds, Miss Freeman has been watching the Jaycees, rodeo sponsors.

"This rodeo is no little thing to the Jaycees," she said. "They have been out at the rodeo grounds every night this summer fixing the fences and cleaning up. Even the rodeo money goes for street signs, waste baskets downtown, the city pool and entertainment," she said.

Search for Fugitive Shifts, Plane Used

KEWANEE — The search for William Lee Sales, 25, a native of Matthews, changed sites today as the Missouri Highway Patrol put a plane into service. Ground patrol forces and New Madrid county officers converged on an area four miles north of here this morning.

A patrol spokesman said the chase shifted from a location north of Puxico, where Sales was reported seen, and a search made Thursday, after clothes, identified as those worn by the assailant of two Canolou women Tuesday night, were found near here.

The patrol charged that Sales broke into a house, near the state weight station on highway 61, near Kewanee last night, around 6 p.m. took a transistor radio, food, a .22 caliber rifle and clothes and fled into a nearby cornfield. The field, of head high corn, gave him concealment as he changed clothes, later found after he was trailed there by a dog, owned by Coroner Don Cramer of Cape Girardeau.

The patrol plane, piloted by Sgt. Jesse Murphy of Kirkwood, located a man in a corn field, near a wooded area at 9 a.m. Friday. He fled into a nearby woods when the plane approached.

The posse, numbering 20 to 30, and with two shifts of highway patrolmen involved, centered around the wooded area at mid-morning, with the dog trying to locate the evasive fugitive.

New Madrid sheriff office advised today that they had filed a felony warrant charging him with the attack of his mother-in-law and her daughter, Louise Douglas, 62, and her deaf mute daughter, Dorothy, 22, in Canolou. He is also wanted in Forrest Park, Ill., near Chicago for aggravated assault, car theft, and attempted kidnapping and Cook County, Illinois officers for parole violation on a former, undisclosed crime in Chicago.

Thursday's search, north of Puxico, resulted after two brothers - Noah and Ernie Isaacs, reported to the patrol that a man, answering Sales' description, had come to their house Thursday morning, seeking food and the use of their truck.

No contact or sighting of the fugitive occurred and late Thursday a Campbell resident reported he saw Sales "driving around Campbell." This call proved negative, the Patrol said.

Sikeston police reported a 1969 Dodge 440 Coronet was stolen between 6 p.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. today from Estes Motor Company on South Main. The car has a tan vinyl top and the bottom is dark bronze colored.

Officers said it is possible that Sales stole the car. Keys to all new and used cars were stolen. It was reported a dealers license plate (D-459C) is missing from the motor company.

THE SEARCH goes on for William Lee Sales, 25, who is wanted for investigation of beating two women living near Matthews Tuesday night. At the edge of a corn field, three miles northwest of Kewanee, Highway Patrol corporal Melvin Moyers, Sikeston, right, and New Madrid County Deputy Sheriff Flip Dees take part in the hunt.

Collective Tax Protest Rejected

BENTON — About 50 members of the Scott County Taxpayers Association heard an attorney's opinion last night advising it is impossible for the group to be represented collectively in protests of a $7 million increase in property tax assessments in the county.

Attorney L. D. Joslyn, Charleston, said each case varies and would have to be appealed individually. The organization sought to test the state tax commission's increase order and authorize an overall blanket increase. Earlier this year the commission gave the county court a choice of voluntarily raising assessments by $7 million or the commission would order a $14 million blanket increase.

Joslyn said: "After a thorough study of the law on real and personal property in Missouri, we have concluded that your assessment are individual problems, each to be determined on its merits, and that there is no collective action available to you."

"You tax problems stem from action taken by the state tax commission. The state tax commission is by law empowered to take such action as it has taken. Furthermore, it is required by the law, when the circumstances warrant, to take this type of action."

Although the tax association cannot take action collectively regarding this matter, members night voted to remain organized and appointed a four-man committee to draw by-laws. Committee members are Ralph Scherer, Scott City, Abram Hirschowitz, Oran; A. W. Phegley and Troy Montgomery, both of Chaffee.

It was also decided to ask State Sen. Al Spradling, Cape Girardeau, to seek an opinion from Attorney General John Danforth asking if it is legal for the county court and assessor Andy Halter to comprise the board of Equalization and also the board of appeals. The board of equalization raised specific property in the county and said only property with an assessment ratio below the lawful 30 per cent was increased.

Joslyn, in his written opinion, said: "In making its determinations as to the increasing of the assessments in Scott County as a whole, the state tax commission is not concerned with individual assessments. The commission is only concerned with individual assessments when it receives an appeal from the county board of equalization respecting a certain parcel or tract of land or property. If the commission finds that assessments in Scott County have not been made properly, as is rather obvious in this case, it has the power to and has ordered an increase in the overall assessments in Scott County."

He said the board of equalization and Assessor Halter are obligated to maintain an equitable relationship between the various parcels of property assessed in Scott county.

"The remedy of the individual property owner when he receives notice of an increase in his assessments, is to go before the county board of equalization at its August meeting," Joslyn said. The board will meet Monday at Benton regarding farm land appeals.

Joslyn said the duty of the board of equalization is to keep property of equal value assessed equally.

"This, of course, is a difficult task," Joslyn said. The county court has requested the state to re-assess the county but this cannot be done before 1971 because the state has several requests from other counties in the state wanting equalization assessments.

Joslyn said there "is no rule of thumb" to apply to the exact values of property. He said valuations rest upon the sound judgment of authorities after having considered the evidence respecting the value of various parcels of property to be assessed. Members of the tax association have expressed dissatisfaction because the board of equalization raised only individual cases.

Joslyn said if the individual taxpayer feels aggrieved, he may take an appeal respecting his individual rights (not collectively), to the state tax commission in respect to rulings which may be made by the county board of equalization.

Joslyn then explained that when the assessment in the county is raised more than 10 per cent, the tax authorities must lower the rates to a point where the total revenue realized will be no greater than that at the old rates and old assessments. Members of the tax association contend that although there will be no more revenue received by the county, the burden is placed on fewer taxpayers because only specific properties were increased. The county court said that tax assessments in the county are more uniform now than ever before in the county's history.

"As a practical matter, at the outset Scott County as a whole should pay little, if any, more than was paid before these assessment changes are made," Joslyn said.

Joslyn pointed out that an individual whose assessment fairly reflected the value through the years, should not be hurt. The individual who has been, during past years, coasting along without the advantages of under assessment will feel that he is injured by a sharp increase in his taxes, the attorney said.

Before it was voted to keep the tax association active, Phegley said the group needs to select a man to run for the county court.

"Judge (J. E.) Childress, (Sikeston), runs the court and the other two are his yes men," Phegley charged.

Phegley also claimed he has an attorney and will appear before the board of appeals Monday and then will go all the way to the supreme court.

Association Chairman Louis Heiserer, Illinois, said another meeting will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. at the court house in Benton.

Parker Sings To Rodeo Fans

BY CAROL WERNECK
Television's Fess Parker, television's Daniel Boone, entertained about 4,500 fans Thursday at opening night of the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo.

Parker sang songs including "Gentle On My Mind," "The Gentle Rain" and "Davy Crockett."

The six foot, six inch tall television star whose hair is kept long because of his role, told the audience of a young boy's comment about him.

As Parker was getting off the plane in Paducah Thursday, the boy looked at Parker and said to his mother, "that's the biggest hippie I've ever seen."

Two Boones. Make Believe and Real. Visit

By DONNA KOCH
CHARLESTON — Televisions Daniel Boone, the person of actor Fess Parker, met "kinkfolk" of his namesake Thursday afternoon.

Miss Kate Boone, grandniece of the original Daniel Boone, the original one, lives in the Host House, a retirement home.

She became 98 April 25 this year, and is believed to be the oldest vocal music instructor in the United States. She has served her profession for 82 years.

Parker, guest star at the 17th Annual Sikeston Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo, decided to travel to this nearby town to meet Miss Boone.

Miss Boone is blind, and hard of hearing. Her mind and spirit are bright.

During their visit, Parker asked Miss Boone, "Do you tune us in regularly?"

To which Miss Boone replied that, she cannot enjoy the Daniel Boone Show as much as she did when she could see but she listens to the television program often.

Parker lives in California, and Miss Boone told him about the two years she spent in the San Joaquin Valley, in that state.

"I had a pretty good thing there. And in San Francisco, too, although I wasn't there much. In the Valley, I taught music in a school. Mostly voice. I have taught piano, but it was never my strong point."

She said the Valley was beautiful, when she was there, but then, she said, that was many years ago.

Parker asked Miss Boone: "Did you ever hear your family say anything about Daniel's musical abilities?"

"No," she said. "I never heard anything about that side of his life. That wasn't considered very manly. Kind of sissy, in that day. Daniel was a very masculine fellow."

"I heard his hair was red, an auburn color," Parker asked. "Do you know anything about this, Miss Boone?"

"I think it was," she said. Miss Boone was born in Clinton, Ky., and says:

"A nice little town. Of course, I'm full of prejudice. Everyone north of the Mason-Dixon Line was considered a Yankee. Usually preceded by a small prefix. We all thought of it as one word. Damnyankee."

What do you think about the prejudices in our present world? Parker asked.

"I think there is prejudice all over the country," she said. "I don't think it is any stronger in the South than anywhere else. I

Blackwell Names in Transfer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, listed Mrs. Dorothy Blackwell as his wife in a real estate transaction Dec. 19, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat reported today.

Blackwell, President Pro Tem of the Missouri Senate, stated in an application for a marriage license in Las Vegas, Nev., July 26 he was divorced from Mrs. Blackwell Feb. 17, 1967.

Blackwell, 45, was married to the former Carolyn Sue Ravenscraft, 26, of Herculaneum, Mo., the same day the license was obtained.

Blackwell has made only one public statement since the marriage and he said nothing about the alleged divorce or the marriage to his former legal secretary.

The Globe-Democrat said according to a general warranty deed filed after the sale, "Earl R. Blackwell and Dorothy A. Blackwell, his wife," and Erb Land Co. sold 346 acres of land to Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Hoesey of St. Louis.

Records of two other property transactions after Feb. 17, 1967, listed Mrs. Dorothy Blackwell as the senator's wife, the newspaper said.

The district director of the internal revenue in St. Louis, said Thursday Blackwell filed a joint tax return with his wife for 1967.

Lt. Gov. William Morris said at a political rally in Marshall, Mo., Thursday night he intended to telephone Blackwell and asked whether he established residence in Nevada to obtain a divorce.

Morris said if Blackwell confirms the six-week residency required to obtain a divorce in Las Vegas he will inform the legislator; "Senator, by provisions of the constitution, you have forfeited your office and are no longer a senator, and I am going to notify the governor to call a special election to fill the vacancy."

The Missouri Constitution requires a senator or representative to reside in the district he represents.

Blackwell, in a statement on a St. Louis television news program this week, attacked the "metropolitan press" for delving into his private life, saying his personal affairs are no concern of the public.

Rep. Fred Williams, D-St. Louis, disagreed with the senator Thursday night, saying Blackwell's "personal conduct and personal morals while an elected official of our state government are the people's business."

Nixon to Discuss Welfare

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon in his speech to the nation tonight is expected to propose a replacement for the U.S. welfare system, including a guaranteed income and incentives to get people off welfare and into jobs.

The President also reportedly will announce a shift in the federal antipoverty program from community action to developing new job opportunities.

The address, to be carried by radio and television, is scheduled for 10 p.m. EDT.

Executive branch and Capitol Hill sources say the President will ask Congress to:

—Guarantee an income of $1,500 a year to the average family of four. This would pioneer payments to wage earners who make below subsistence salaries.

—Take Washington out of job training. The 30-odd counseling, recruitment and training programs would be consolidated and funded by block grants.

—Give states an automatic share of federal tax revenues, about $1 billion the first year.

—Impose a federally-financed minimum of about $30 a month for each of the 6.5 million persons who receive aid to dependent children, the largest and most costly welfare program.

—Provide a minimum benefit of $50 a month in all adult welfare programs such as old-age assistance and aid to the blind and disabled. The federal payment would supplement the present sliding scale. The present share is around $40 and all but seven states now pay average benefits over $50.

The Washington Post said the present controversial aid to dependent children program would be abolished and the federal food stamp program virtually junked. The guaranteed income would carry a price tag of $4 billion annually.

A SOVIET TREATY VIOLATION?

Patriotic citizens know that any treaty with Russia will last only as long as the Soviets consider it to their advantage. This is especially true of any disarmament treaty.

Last year the United States and Russia signed a treaty supposedly banning nuclear weapons from outer space. Anti-Communists warned then that the Soviets would not be deterred in weapons development by the treaty, and that the effect would be unilateral disarmament by the United States.

The truth of this is shown by accumulating evidence that the Soviet Union is perfecting weapons which could be delivered from outer space. The Kremlin already has the potential to fire an atomic warhead into a low orbit around the earth and then guide it to a target. When Congressional committee members questioned former Defense Secretary McNamara on this possible violation of the treaty he replied: "They agreed not to place warheads in full orbit. This is a fractional orbit and hence not a violation."

Now the Soviets are proceeding from a possible toward a certain violation of the treaty. Recent test shots by the Soviets indicate that they are transforming the fractional orbital weapon into one that could place a nuclear weapon into full orbit for several months. At any time the weapon could be brought down to earth and detonated.

Our national security is threatened by both of these developments. We are adhering strictly to a treaty for which the Soviets obviously have little respect. We should not be bound by any arms limitation treaty when it has been violated by our principal enemy in the world. ***

WISE WORDS

On his seventieth birthday a few weeks back, E. B. White, the noted writer gave a rare interview to The New York Times. It has always seemed to us that most writers come off better on paper than they do when they begin to talk. Mr. White is a pleasant exception because he apparently insists on thinking before he speaks. The consequence of this is that Mr. White is interesting in any medium on virtually any subject.

In the course of the interview, Mr. White commented on many things, among them the literary scene ("I'm not against good taste in writing, however unpopular it may be today.") old age ("The Bible has me dead on July 11, and I believe everything I read in print."), and student dissent. On the latter topic, Mr. White had this to say:

"It's not easy to keep the true dissenters (those who want to improve something) separate from the phony dissenters (those who want to destroy the whole business). The two intermingle in the heat of campus controversy."

"Universities have become very big, and with bigness comes remoteness, inaccessibility. This is bad, and it causes trouble. When I was an undergraduate, there were a few professors who went out of their way to befriend students. At the house of one of these men I felt more at home than I did in my own home with my own father and mother. I felt excited, instructed, accepted, influential, and in a healthy condition."

"Apparently, most students today don't enjoy any such experience, and they are ready to dismantle the Establishment before they have either defined it or tasted it. In a democracy, dissent is as essential as the air we breathe. It's only when students form an elite society, immune from ordinary restraints, that I worry about dissent." ***

It is said that a 1839 Abner Doubleday laid out the first diamond-shaped field and named the game baseball. Standard rules weren't adopted until about 1845, when Alexander Cartwright laid out the diamond with most of the distances still used today.

So what is 1969 the 100th anniversary of?
It is the 100th anniversary of professional baseball, that's what!

Prior to 1869, a few teams had professionals, but most players were amateurs. But, says World Book Encyclopedia, the Cincinnati Red Stockings formed the first all-professional team in 1869.

Professional baseball has been around ever since, and the pay is better. The players on the 1869 Red Stockings earned from $600 to $1,400. ***

ADRIFT WITHOUT A PADDLE

While big labor and big business sock it to each other, we now realize that the nation's more than 5,000,000 smaller enterprisers have been left adrift on the sea of inflation without a paddle.

The major setbacks, according to researchers of the National Federation of Independent Business, appear to be, in this order:

1. The escalating interest rates on loans essential for operations, especially the last jump in the prime rate to 8 1/2 per cent. Many small businesses are now paying 10 per cent or more on bank loans.

2. The passage in the House of the extension of the surtax which many feel is a futile move for curbing inflation when it should be a cut in government spending.

3. Failure of the House to make any provision for limited usage of the 7 per cent investment credit which is completely eliminated.

Even the Small Business Administration has earmarked a large share of its funds for War on Poverty program purposes, with only $18,000,000 now allocated for direct loans.

NEW YORK AP) — Since more trips are to be made to the moon, why not turn our lunar orb into a museum of mankind? Then if man, in a frenzy of self-hate, should ever destroy himself and his works on earth, a record of his race would still exist in artifacts preserved forever in the cold storage vaults of the moon.

In some future eon, perhaps intelligent forms of life from outer space might explore our solar system, stumble upon this treasure trove of human relics on the moon, and ponder the magnitude and misery of man.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON-The truth is beginning to leak out as to what really happened on that black Friday night, July 18, when Sen. Ted Kennedy and Mary Jo Kopechne hurtled off Dyke Bridge into Poucha Pond. As a shocked world learned, only Kennedy emerged from the murky water.

The Senator has brought absolutely no pressure upon those who played a part in the nightmare to support his account of the tragedy. But their loyalty to Kennedy is so fierce that they will back up his story to the last dotted "i." This column can state categorically, however, that he didn't tell the whole truth.

Some of the girls who attended the cookout preceding the tragedy have turned down fabulous financial offers for their stories. Kennedy hasn't asked them to keep silent; they have been left on their honor. Yet not one of them has sold out.

In the strictest of privacy, however, intimates have let some of the details out of the bag. We have now been able to piece together from the most reliable sources essentially what happened that terrible night.

At the carefree cookout Sen. Kennedy did his share of drinking, but intimates insist he wasn't drunk. He invited pretty, young Mary Jo to join him for a midnight swim, and they set out on a nocturnal adventure not uncommon on Martha's vineyard. Nor are these summer night swims necessarily viewed as evidence of immoral conduct.

The Senator and the girl drove in his black, 1967 Oldsmobile down the only paved road on Chappaquiddick Island. As they roared along the island's north end toward the Edgartown Ferry, Kennedy consciously, purposefully made a hard right onto Dyke road, a dirt road that leads only to a beach. He knew where he was going; he had been there many times before.

"No," he replied. "You are the first."
"How many models have you had?" she asked.
"Four," he answered. "A rose, an onion, a banana, and you."

"Have you been leading a normal life?" asked Dr. Bishop.
"Yes, I have," answered Tatum.
"Well, you'll have to cut it out for well," ordered Dr. B. ***

NO EXPERT
A young soldier home after three years of duty in Hawaii was caught driving too fast on one of the capital's boulevards. Deciding to outsmart the cop, he answered the question, "What's your name?" with: "Kamehameha Haleakala Laupahoehoe."

The policeman moved closer and asked:
"What that again?"
"Kamehameha Haleakala Laupahoehoe," repeated the soldier.
"Look, bud," the policeman said, "Kamehameha was a king, Haleakala is a mountain, Laupahoehoe is a town - and I was an MP in Honolulu. Now, quick, what's your name?"

preposterous, absurd ideal. He would ask his cousin, Joe Gargain, to take the rap for him. Kennedy had always been there when the Kennedys needed him. Although a lawyer, he was more a handyman who ran errands and attended to arrangements for the Kennedys.

So while Mary Jo lay at the bottom of Poucha Pond, the Senator walked back to the vacation cottage, passing four houses on his way - some with their lights burning, all containing telephones.

At the cottage, he summoned Gargain and another trusted intimate, Paul Markham, a former U.S. Attorney for Massachusetts. Gargain grimly said he would admit to driving the car. The three men then returned to the scene of the disaster to make certain that Gargain would be totally familiar with the circumstances surrounding "His" unfortunate accident.

It is entirely possible that Markham and Gargain attempted to retrieve the girl's body, as Kennedy claimed in his second statement. After rehearsing the details of the accident, the three men left the scene. Kennedy returned to his hotel in Edgartown, allegedly swimming the treacherous channel between the islands. Gargain and Markham apparently went back to the cottage.

In the cold light of dawn, Kennedy decided to face the consequences himself, and he filed his terse statement with the Edgartown police at 10 a.m. He then repaired to the Kennedy compound in Hyannis Port where, cloistered with family, friends and advisers, he constructed a more complete statement.

This omitted embarrassing details and left a number of unanswered questions. It also left Sen. Ted Kennedy, the bright young star of the Democratic Party, with his very own credibility gap.

"No," replied a voice from below. "But there's a McPherson here who's willing to try."

Pentagon and the Poor:
Laird Reports on Defense Dept's Aid To New Life of Returning Soldiers

Defense Department chief Melvin Laird is one of the nation's "biggest employers." Certainly the Pentagon is one of the nation's heaviest spenders. It has been under attack by those who impugn what they call the "industrial-military complex" (forgetting that it is the same combination of industrial talent which put the astronauts on the moon).

In the eyes of these critics, the military appear unable to do any good, make any decent move, or to be capable of any but Neanderthal actions.

So I asked Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird what his "complex" does for the people. What of the Pentagon's Domestic Action Council?

Here is his reply, written exclusively for this column:
By Melvin R. Laird
Secretary of Defense

Washington — Every American, young and old, has a major investment in the Department of Defense. We spend more of the Federal tax dollar and employ more people than any other single organization in the country.

Our primary job, of course, is defense, and our programs are planned and our budget is developed with that job foremost in mind. But by using initiative and imagination, the Department of Defense can produce important side effects, without impairing our basic mission. We believe we can draw upon our human and physical resources in ways that will enrich the lives of many disadvantaged citizens.

I have assigned Assistant Secretary of Defense Roger T. Kelley, formerly of the Caterpillar Tractor Co. to head up what we call "Domestic Action Council." The Council consists of senior Defense officials who will identify the areas in which our Department can help solve urban and social problems and then coordinate related action programs. Here are a few of the program categories we have in mind:

1. Buying from Firms in Areas of High Unemployment. The areas in our country which have extensive unemployment problems are a few of the program categories we have in mind:

2. Transition Training. Each year more than 900,000 men complete their service in the Armed Forces. They have served their country well and deserve the opportunity to succeed in the civilian life. Our existing Transition Program is an effort to meet their needs. Prior to leaving government service, men are given skill training or participate in programs to raise their educational level. The educational programs are provided by the Military Services, local school systems, and some colleges. The training is provided by the Department of Labor and by the private industry, which, in a later case, conducts the training

3. Housing and Hospitals. Providing housing and medical care for our military families is a major responsibility of the Department of Defense. At the same time, reducing the cost of housing construction and hospital operations is of concern to military and civilians alike. We hope to find more efficient techniques to reduce costs in both these areas. This will contribute immediately to lower defense expenses, and the spin-off effect of lessons learned could help reduce the cost of housing and medical care for all Americans.

4. Project 100,000. Each year we are accepting approximately 100,000 men for military service whose qualifications for military service are physical, educational, or mental — were judged by an earlier standard either marginal or below standard. In Project 100,000, we are attempting to train these men sufficiently to make them fully acceptable members of the military team. Most of them are meeting the challenges of military life, and we hope that their military experience will improve their chances of success in civilian life.

5. Sharing technology. Each year the Department of Defense sponsors research and development to support Defense programs. In some cases, the results can assist scientists and engineers studying a variety of civilian problems. We hope to make even more of this information available to the civilian scientific community, and to establish more joint projects on problems of substantial mutual interest.

6. Employment of Youth. In Areas of High Unemployment, cooperation with the Department of Labor, the Department of Defense has developed a special program to recruit, train and employ disadvantaged youth in 41 many things which are or could be produced in such areas. The Department of Labor provides the funds and we are available, we hope to buy more provide training facilities and from firms in these areas, which supervision for selected in turn can train and employ meaningful jobs. We hope this program will reach over 5,000 youth this summer. In a related program, we are attempting to train over 100 Indian youngsters in the area of Salt Lake City and Ogden, Utah.

As Secretary of Defense, I recognize that the President's Urban Affairs Council and other departments and agencies have to meet their needs. Prior to leaving government service, men are given skill training or participate in programs to raise their educational level. The educational programs are provided by the Military Services, local school systems, and some colleges. of Freedom are now watching mature. Selfish minorities are finally being overruled by the quiet majority that up to now, has paid millions of dollars in taxes only to be walked on by inflation and violence.

A national publication recently stated: "Outcome of New York's primary reveals the strength of a nationwide 'conservative' trend keyed to law and order. In the stronghold of big-city 'liberalism,' many voters in both of the major parties took a sharp turn to the right."

A bitter loser of this vital election has stated his desire to fight the "forces of hatred and divisiveness" which surround this "conservative" trend. Almost since the first use of the word "conservative" in political circles, it has carried adverse connotations stemming from radical expressions from the Left that to be Conservative is to be opposed to anything and everything, depending, of course, on what the Left feels is good or bad.

The term "Constructive," which the dictionary defines as opposed to destructive, would be a much better term for the Freedom side to assume as its standard. No one could say that to be "Constructive" would mean opposed to anything and everything. To be "Constructive" is to be for and rather than condemn a person or subject, one would praise the alternative to a dispute.

A wise man once said "What I like about telling the truth is that you don't have to remember what you said." To forget what you have said is not always the best answer to a problem, but to be Constructive is to speak with truth, honesty and sincerity. The truth is always on the Freedom side and to be Constructive is to be for Freedom. H.L.H.

Ann Landers
Husband is Wonderful,
But Not As A Lover---

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I married eight years ago. I was nearly three months pregnant. We've had a happy marriage and I've tried to be kind to my in-laws although they never had any use for me and they let me know it.
We now have three children and are proud of them all. My in-laws moved out of the state five years ago. They send the two younger children beautiful birthday gifts every year and ignore the oldest child's birthday completely. The message is clear and I resent it. The child is old enough to ask why her grandparents never send her a birthday gift. I can no longer say, "They forgot."

Rev. Mike Mitchell

Dear No.: Your husband (not you) should write to his parents and tell them the oldest child can't understand why Grandma and Grandpa keep forgetting her birthday. Ask them to please send her a card if they don't wish to send a gift. If they fail to comply with his request next year, return the younger children's birthday gifts, unopened.
Dear Ann Landers: I am married to a wonderful man and consider myself extremely fortunate. He has dozens of marvelous qualities but as a lover he is a failure.
I try to fake it but no male as perceptive and sensitive as he can be fooled. He knows my lovemaking is the "duty brand."
It kills me when my husband lies beside me at night, silent and pensive. I'm sure he is brooding over his inadequacy. I don't go along with your advice to other wives -- "Tell him what is wrong and together you can work out a pattern of lovemaking that is mutually rewarding." I can't imagine anything more ego-shattering to a man than to be told he is a poor lover.
Help me, please Ann. I'm confused and unhappy. -- Jennie
Dear Jennie: By your own admission, you've already told him -- in language far more eloquent than words. And now you must be more explicit. He won't be hurt, he'll be grateful. A man who cares for his woman is teachable. (And if the shoe is on the other foot, boys, women are teachable, too.)
Dear Ann Landers: I'm an honor student and I work hard to get good grades. Some kids are just naturally brainy but I'm a pluggger, not a genius.
Last year I was bugged by at least ten friends who wanted to copy my homework. Half the time I said, "O.K." The rest of the time I made up excuses like, "I haven't finished it yet." They knew I was lying. Later I hated myself for being chicken.
I don't want to lose any friends. Can you suggest a polite

Mothers of Head Start Children Enthusiastic

Editors Note - This is the second and last of a two-part series on a six county Head Start operation which has been completed.

By Jesse Lynn
PORTAGEVILLE - Mothers of the Head Starters seemed as enthusiastic as their prodigy and cooperated in every conceivable manner, Head Start officials pointed out in their review of the program.

A series of ten two-hour lessons were outlined for the mothers. A lesson was taught each week by two Extension Home Economists at nine centers over the ten week period.

The medical and dental phases of the Delta Head Start program seek to find and correct all present health defects in the children, and to insure, all well, their future health.

Each child enrolled in the program is given a complete physical examination. This includes a complete dental examination.

The Delta Summer program was able to complete the physical examination of 1910 children with the remainder to be completed by September. Dental examinations completed were 1751 with the remainder to be completed in September also.

The program attempts to improve the child's present health by collecting records of past health, considering the observations of classroom teachers and other staff, and screening tests.

It attempts to provide for the child's future health by arranging for immunizations against diphtheria, tetanus and typhoid, polio, smallpox and measles. Every Head Start Center has a nurse or nurse's aide that works under the supervision of the Nurse Coordinator, who is an R.N. The Nurse Coordinator is supervised by the Medical Director.

The Delta Head Start also provided social services which include: child guidance services; correctional services; public health referral; informational services on public assistance; assistance in solving personal and social problems; locating and helping to alleviate sub-standard home conditions; assistance in money management; educational advancement services; emergency transportation; home visitations, and, informal counseling service.

Professional psychological services have been used extensively in the Delta Head Start program.

Psychologists work closely with the centers to plan and carry out a comprehensive program to meet the needs of the children and, in some cases, their families.

After the teachers in the centers have had an opportunity to become acquainted with the children and observe them closely, there may be some referral to the professional psychological counselors working with the program.

The counselors first observe the child for a day, and then confer with teachers and parents concerning the child.

After gaining background information, the counselor then tests the child, and from results of the tests determines how best to help the child, and works with teachers and parents to help the child overcome minor problems.

A typical HS program was operated at Dexter.

The 41 Dexter Head Start children were four and five years old. Most of these children will be entering kindergarten this fall.

These children under the direction of Mrs. Evelyn Baker and Mrs. Janice Becker, are not the babies they seemed the first weeks of Head Start. Already they are showing signs of maturity, both individually and collectively. The whole child is being trained through a variety of experiences that are intended to give him a good start in formal education. Music, art, speech, language, physical fitness, awareness of self as an individual and as a member of a group - each area is being promoted in various ways.

All 44 children had a complete physical and dental check. Thirty-four of these children had dental follow-ups. This field trips were taken to the City Park and Madison's Tropical Fish.

The space of Headstart is being donated by the Lutheran Church. The pastor is Rev. Alvin Lange.

Other staff members of Dexter Headstart were: Teachers Aides - Mrs. Mary Ezell, Mrs. Jane Larsen, Mrs. Mina Voss, the NYC Workers - Pattie Grissom, Betty Shipman, Marie Wells; Secretary - Mrs. Kay Hall; Nurse - Mrs. Lavern Dowdy; Social Service Aide - Mrs. Della Wiseman; Imogene Martin - Custodian; and George Quinton and Earl Slaughter - Bus Drivers.

Residents to Take Look at City Water System

Residents of Sikeston will have a first-hand opportunity to learn how their water supplies are transported, processed, and distributed when Sikeston Light and Water opens its doors to the public Aug. 16, 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. for it was announced by E. R. Inman director of utilities.

The tours are part of the utility's participation in Willing Water Week, a period set aside for Aug. 10-16 to focus attention on the accomplishments, needs, and future goals of public water utilities throughout the United States.

"There can be no doubt as to the necessity of a dependable supply of safe water to the well-being and growth of this community," Inman said. "We feel it is important to let the public see what is being done now, and what is being planned, to assure that our water supplies keep pace with our needs."

Inman pointed out that the demands for water by Americans are skyrocketing. "Public water utilities, which now supply 25 billion gallons of water every day, will be required to double that amount by 1980. Just 30 years from now, America will need three times the amount used today."

Inman noted that the problems that must be overcome in order to meet these water demands can only be solved "if the public is aware of these problems and is willing to support water improvement programs."

Willing Water Week is an annual event sponsored by the American Water Works Association, a national professional and scientific society whose membership consists primarily of utility managers and operators, engineers, and scientists, and government and education men concerned with public water supply.

To meet the overall needs of the Sikeston community the Water Treatment Plant must supply 150 gallons of clear water per person each day. In the major European capitals each person is supplied only about 70 gallons per day.

For residential use in drinking, cooking, laundering, household cleaning, bathing, lawn sprinkling, shaving, backyard swimming pools and car washing, the average American uses 60 gallons of water each day and for these 60 gallons of water delivered to your home by the Sikeston Water Works you pay less than the cost of a package of gum.

For commercial use in cooling systems in stores where we shop and the offices where we work, for water in the dentist's office, water at the local laundry, water at the laundromat, water in schools and hospitals, water in restaurants and at soda fountains, water at the beauty parlor and barber shop - for these uses of water the average citizen uses 20 gallons per day.

For industrial use in manufacturing most of the products we use and for employment and community prosperity, industry needs a great amount of water from the public supply in addition to the water that industry provides for itself. On the average, industry uses from public systems 50 gallons a day per person.

For public use in fire-fighting, sprinkling streets, municipal swimming pools, public drinking fountains, parks and public buildings, water is in keen demand. These and other public uses of water account for about 10 gallons per day per person. There are some inevitable water losses for leaks and breaks in pipelines - some 10 gallons each day per person.

Glenn Jones, J. W. Hurley, Oscar Shaver and Herman Brashear are the operators in charge of the Sikeston Water Filtering Plant and Wells. These men have over forty years of experience in water treatment.

When one of them pulls into your drive he may have a fish story to tell or talk about the ball game of the night before, but their visit is of much greater importance. They are there to get one of the many samples taken daily throughout the city.

Tests are run on each sample for fluoride, chlorine, alkalinity, iron, ph, magnesium, and total hardness. Three samples are sent to the Department of Public Health at Jefferson City each month for bacteriological analysis, analysis for radioactivity and chemical analysis of water. Reports of these samples are kept at the Water Plant and the Department of Public Health Office in Jefferson City.

Jones, Hurley, Shaver and Brashear look at themselves first as public health officers in their town. Why? Because water affects everyone.

Where does Sikeston get its water? From the ground. Ground water is a great natural resource in Missouri. For example of approximately 900 Public Water Suppliers 80% get their water from wells and 20% from surface sources. Also millions of acres are irrigated by water from wells and the number of industries which depend on water from wells is unknown but certainly is very large.

Ground water supplies which Sikeston is blessed with has certain advantages over surface supplies. They are as follows: The supply in this locality is close at hand, the water is of more uniform character and relatively free from harmful bacteria in comparison with surface supplies, smaller capital investment usually is required in construction and equipment and the cost of production is generally less.

How is the water treated? Sikeston's water is pumped from five wells through two aerators. In this process the water is brought into intimate contact with air for the accomplishing of one or more of the following purposes: (1) removing or reducing tastes and odors, (2) removing gases such as carbon dioxide and hydrogen sulfide, (3) oxidizing iron and manganese compounds occurring in water, (4) introducing oxygen into the water. From the aerators the water goes to four rapid sand filters where the bacteria is removed along with any toxic or suspended matter. After filtration chlorine is added. Chlorination of public water supplies represents the most important process used in the production of water of a safe, sanitary quality. The process is only as effective as the control that is exercised in insuring that all of the supply continuously receives chlorine in an amount proportional to the flow that will produce effective disinfection. Disinfection refers to the reduction of the bacterial population to a safe level, as contrasted to sterilization, which refers to the destruction of the bacterial population.

Fluoride added to the water supplies to prevent dental cavities in consumers is an established public health practice in this and many other countries.

The water then passes to the clear well. From the clear well the water is picked up by five high service pumps and pumped into the water mains and elevated tanks ready for the consumers.

Woman Senator in Thick Of Safeguard Maneuvers

WASHINGTON (AP) — After all the days of technical testimony, the weeks of debate, it was the courtship of Margaret Chase Smith which shaped the crucial hours of the Senate's Safeguard battle.

It made no difference that the silver-haired senator from Maine voted with one set of suitors against the administration missile defense plan, then switched sides in a second vote.

The opposition lost both, and the administration program was approved by the one-vote margin President Nixon himself had forecast as a possibility some five months ago.

Sen. Smith, senior Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee, came to the climactic session with an amendment designed to block all spending for the Safeguard system.

She said she had no confidence in it, and couldn't justify spending money even for research.

Advocates of the system were certain that amendment would be defeated. And they forecast that when it was, Mrs. Smith would vote against the major obstacle to the system, an amendment to bar deployment but permit continued research and testing of Safeguard.

They were right, twice. But they had some anxious moments.

At the outset, advocates and foes of Safeguard took turns praising Mrs. Smith.

But Safeguard proponents, who had discounted her original amendment, reacted with concern when Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., proposed blending it with the legislation which was the chief vehicle of Safeguard foes.

His suggestion: alter the Smith amendment to permit continued research and development work on an anti-ballistic missile, just so the Safeguard wasn't the system involved.

Mrs. Smith agreed, but everyone else had to agree, too, in order to make the change in her amendment.

A bit off balance at the prospect of a new alliance, Safeguard proponents quickly objected to any change. Then came a calculated delay. Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the majority leader, suggested the Senate take a break from business and welcome Horace M. King, speaker of Great Britain's House of Commons.

Mansfield then suggested a call of the roll, a common delaying tactic, to permit senators to shake hands with the speaker.

While that was going on, Mansfield and a bloc of ABM foes conferred with Mrs. Smith. Among them: Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., sponsor of what had been the key opposition amendment.

That session produced an alliance. Mrs. Smith would propose a second amendment, designed to bar any Safeguard spending, but permitting the Pentagon to go ahead with efforts to invent a better system.

Back on the floor, the Senate voted 89 to 11 against Mrs. Smith's Safeguard ban, argued some more, then got her second proposal.

By that time, the ABM sponsors had cooled toward Mrs. Smith.

"This is tragic," said Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss. There was talk of a move to prevent consideration of the new Smith amendment on grounds it was a little different from the first one. There were huddles between Stennis, Republicans John Tower of Texas and Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Even as the debate wore on, critics of Safeguard knew their cause was lost.

"What it comes down to is that we're working like hell to lose 50-50 instead of 51-49," said a Democratic aide.

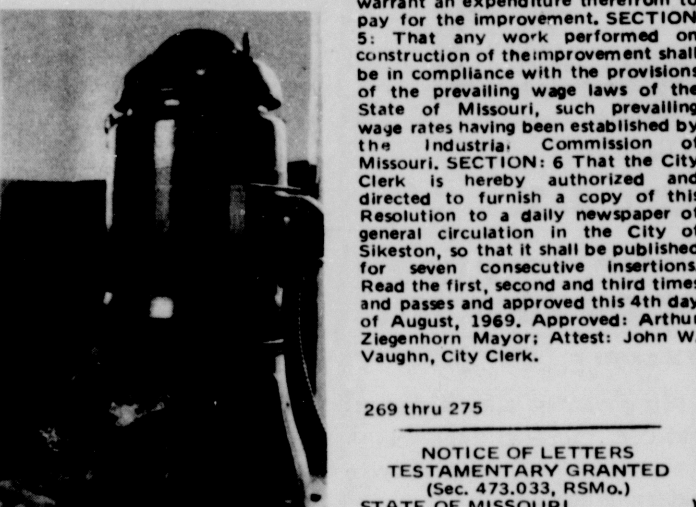

"What it came down to was that ABM foes lost both ways. The first roll call, on Mrs. Smith's proposal, was beaten on a tie vote. It takes a Senate majority to approve an amendment.

If You Were the Judge Intent Key to Scant Dancing Attire

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.
Vivacious Vera, a night club dancer, had her clothes designed so that she could be seen in the best places. By the end of her performance, she could be seen in all places. A young stripling, she stripped down to nothing.
The result? She was arrested for violating a law that made it a crime to give a performance "to arouse sexual desires."
"When she finished her dance," the arresting officers assured the judge, "Vera was down to her birthday suit."
"That may be true," answered Vera modestly, "but there's no proof that I aroused anyone's sexual desires as prohibited by the law. In fact, I didn't arouse any such desires. As my clothes dropped off, so did the number of customers in the night club. They all began to leave. Consequently, I'm innocent of the charge."
IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict the disappointing stripper?
This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that the intention to arouse sexual desires was all that was necessary to constitute the crime. While it might have been a slap at her professional standing, noted the judge, Vera's failure or inability to carry out her intent was no defense.
Based upon a 1964 Louisiana Supreme Court Decision)

What We Think About It

By Lt. Colonel Norman E. May
of Warwick, Bermuda

"Now, by present estimates, from four to six thousand Americans of draft age have left this country for Canada, two or three thousand more have gone to Europe, and it looks as though many more were preparing to emigrate.
"A bill to stop the draft was recently introduced in the Senate (S. 503), sponsored by a group of senators that runs the gamut from McGovern and Hatfield to Barry Goldwater. I hope it goes through. But I think that when we get rid of the draft we must also drastically cut back the size of the armed forces.
"Yet there is something ever so much bigger and more important than the draft. That bigger thing, of course, is the militarization of our country. Ex-President Eisenhower, in his farewell address, warned us of what he called the military-industrial complex. I am sad to say that we must begin to think of it now as the military-industrial-labor-union complex. What happened under the plea of the Cold War was not alone that we built up the first big peacetime Army in our history but that we institutionalized it. We built, I suppose, the biggest government building in our history to run it, and we institutionalized it.
"I don't think we can live with the present military establishment, and its eighty billion dollar a year budget, and keep America anything like the America we have known in the past. It is corrupting the life of the whole country. It is buying up everything in sight: industries, banks, investors, scientists -- lately it seems also to have bought up the labor union."

The Prayer from The Upper Room

The prayer of a righteous man has great power in its effects. James 5:16, RSV)
PRAYER: Help us, our Father, never to cease coming before You in prayer. Grant that we may come often into fellowship and communion with You. Help us so to pour out our souls to You that You may become a meaningful reality in our lives. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

DO YOUR FUSES BLOW THEIR TOPS?

The most frequent cause of blown fuses is overloaded circuits.

Many people have added new appliances (which is fine) without adding new circuits (not so good in some cases) to their original wiring.

It happens so gradually that most folks don't realize that their circuits are overloaded until fuses start to blow.

If your fuses are blowing see your electrical contractor right away. And you can have those extra convenience outlets that you've needed for so long put in at the same time.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Friday, Aug. 8, the 220th day of 1969. There are 145 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1940, in World War II, German warplanes launched daylight attacks against England, beginning what became known as the Battle of Britain.

On this date: In 1588, British sea forces under Sir Francis Drake destroyed the Spanish Armada. In 1776, John Paul Jones was commissioned a captain in the American Navy. In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte sailed for the island of St. Helena to spend the rest of his life in exile. In 1918, in World War I, Allied forces under Marshal Foch began an offensive which broke the back of German resistance. In 1945, the Soviet Union declared war on Japan, seven days before the Japanese surrender in World War II. In 1953, the United States signed a mutual security pact with the Republic of Korea. Ten years ago — Floods and heavy rains on Formosa caused at least 640 deaths. Five years ago — Turkish planes attacked Greek Cypriot positions on the island of Cyprus. One year ago — Richard Nixon picked Gov. Spiro Agnew of Maryland as his vice presidential running mate and Agnew was approved after a fight on the floor of the Republican convention at Miami Beach, Fla.

DiehlstadtHouse Burns, Firemen Refuse Run

DIEHLSTADT -- A Diehlstadt family lost their house and all belongings about 1 p.m. Monday, when the Charleston fire department, acting on instructions from the city council, refused to answer the fire call.

Burned out were members of the Malcolm Green family, including Mr. and Mrs. Green and five children, ages 6 to 15. Len C. Allen, Mrs. Green's father, said Wednesday the Greens offered on the phone to pay for the fire call, but were turned down by the Charleston department.

A spokesman for the department said the city council has given strict instructions that rural calls will be made only to members of the local rural fire association.

Members must pay dues of $5 per year for the fire service, and agree to pay $100 for each fire call made to their property. This $100 is usually recovered from the member's insurance company.

"We hate to turn down a fire call and let a house burn down," the spokesman said, "but we have no alternative in view of the council's order."

In explaining the reason for the "get-tough policy" on rural fire calls, a member of the council said Wednesday that the cost of purchasing and maintaining a fire truck for rural calls, and of paying the volunteer firemen who make the calls, is too great to be borne by the Charleston taxpayers.

"If people outside the city want fire protection," he added, "they must pay their share of the cost of the service."

In the case of the Greens, Mr. Allen said the house burned so rapidly that by the time the fire truck could arrive it would have been too late to save the property. "My daughter (Mrs. Green) didn't even have time to get a little dog off the back porch, and it was destroyed in the fire," he said.

Allen said Mr. Green works for a construction firm in St. Louis, and comes home on weekends. He said his son-in-law had been doing a lot of work on the house, and was waiting to insure it until all the work was completed. The property was paid for, he added, but there was no insurance at all.

The Green family is staying with the Allens until they can buy furniture and move into a house across the railroad tracks from their former location. "They plan to rebuild," he said. Allen paid tribute to the people of Diehlstadt, saying "I've only lived here since 1960, but I've never seen a town that was better about helping out people in trouble." He said neighbors have given the Greens a lot of household goods and other necessities since the fire.

He said the fire apparently started in a shed behind the house where the water heater and pump were located, but added that no one knows how it started. A gallon of paint remover in the shed added fuel to the fire, he commented.

Trial Reset Sept. 5

CARUTHERSVILLE — Trial of Kenneth Dewayne Johnson, 23, New Madrid, charged with felonious assault with an automobile, has been reset for Sept. 5 in circuit court. The trial has been set for today.

A motion to remand the case, filed by Johnson, was taken under advisement Tuesday by Judge William L. Ragland.

Charges against Johnson stem from the Aug. 12, 1968, death of Gary Lynn Higginson, New Madrid youth, who was struck by a car while driving a motorcycle in a New Madrid street.

Salvage Yard Operator Arrested

VAN BUREN, Mo. (AP) — A salvage yard operator who failed to appear in Federal Court at Indianapolis, Ind. Tuesday on federal auto theft charges will be tried in Van Buren Saturday on state charges of vehicle theft.

Dallas R. Delay, 30, of Van Buren, was arrested by the Missouri Highway Patrol Wednesday night in Poplar Bluff, Mo., under a federal bench warrant issued by U.S. Dist. Judge William Stecker of Indianapolis.

Delay and Donald W. Rogers, 23, who operates an auto body shop in Poplar Bluff, were indicted by a federal grand jury in Indianapolis July 10. They were to have been arraigned Tuesday on four counts of transporting and selling stolen automobiles in interstate commerce each.

Rogers was in federal custody in Indianapolis but Delay was free under bond, authorities said he was taken into custody at Rogers' home in Poplar Bluff.

The federal indictment alleges that cars were stolen in Missouri and identifying numbers altered to match numbers on titles from wrecked vehicles. The indictment said the cars were sold at auction in Indianapolis.

Authorities say the state charges against Delay involve the theft of an over-the-road tractor from Elfink Truck Line of St. Louis and of a dump truck from a Poplar Bluff dealership.

SNUGGLING UP to "one of those big horses," Miss Charline Freeman, Jaycee rodeo queen, smiles regally.

Rodeo Queen Bears Mark Of Royalty-She Admires Subjects

By SUSAN SHEMWELL
Miss Charline Freeman, 1969 rodeo queen, is getting used to horses again this week after being thrown Memorial Day.

She has had plenty of opportunity to be around horses while presiding over the 17th annual rodeo celebrations. "I have been camping around in Western boots and jeans almost every day all week," she said.

Miss Freeman, 17, has appeared on five television shows; The Early Bird Show, Breakfast Show, The Hour, Dance Party and Popeye; in parades and has been introduced at the rodeo arena.

On Flossie, the horse Jaycees chose for her official mount,

Miss Freeman said she does not mind dust, wind and heat that cowboys and rodeo queens have to endure.

A Girl Scout, she says she enjoys getting outside, pitching a tent and "making do with what there is." She has camped out a few times this summer at Kentucky Lake and Big Spring.

The rodeo queen has been watching people watching her while she has presided over festivities this week, at a parade Wednesday and at the rodeo yesterday.

"Kids look up at me on the horse like they think I am going to reach down and grab them," she laughed.

"They they say in scared little voices, 'Are you the rodeo queen?'" she added.

One young queen watcher brought a few royal chuckles this week when he sympathized with her sitting all alone on a big horse. "Too bad they don't have a king," he said.

Besides watching crowds, Miss Freeman has been watching the Jaycees, rodeo sponsors.

"This rodeo is no little thing to the Jaycees," she said. "They have been out at the rodeo grounds every night this summer fixing the fences and cleaning up. Even the rodeo money goes for street signs, waste baskets downtown, the city pool and entertainment," she said.

A queen, who admires her subjects, bears the mark of good royalty.

Search for Fugitive Shifts, Plane Used

KEWANEE — The search for William Lee Sales, 25, a native of Matthews, changed sites today as the Missouri Highway Patrol put a plane into service. Ground patrol forces and New Madrid county officers converged on an area four miles north of here this morning.

A patrol spokesman said that the chase shifted from a location north of Puxico, where Sales was reported seen, and a search made Thursday, after clothes, identified as those worn by the assailant of two Canalou women Tuesday night, were found near here.

The patrol charged that Sales broke into a house, near the state weight station on highway 61, near Kewanee last night, around 6 p.m. took a transistor radio, food, a .22 caliber rifle and clothes and fled into a nearby cornfield. The field, of head high corn, gave him concealment as he changed clothes, later found after he was trailed there by a dog, owned by Coroner Don Cramer of Cape Girardeau.

The patrol plane, piloted by Sgt. Jesse Murphy of Kirkwood, located a man in a corn field, near a wooded area at 9 a.m. Friday. He fled into a nearby woods when the plane approached.

The posse, numbering 20 to 30, and with two shifts of highway patrolmen involved, centered around the wooded area at mid-morning, with the dog trying to locate the evasive fugitive.

New Madrid sheriff office advised today that they had filed a felony warrant charging him with the attack of his mother-in-law and her daughter, Louise Douglas, 62, and her deaf mute daughter Dorothy, 22, in Canalou. He is also wanted in Forrest Park, Ill., near Chicago for aggravated assault, car theft, and attempted kidnapping and by Cook County, Illinois officers for parole violation on a former, undisclosed crime in Chicago.

Thursday's search, north of Puxico, resulted after two brothers - Noah and Ernie Isaacs, reported to the patrol that a man, answering Sales' description, had come to their house Thursday morning, seeking food and the use of their truck.

No contact or sighting of the fugitive occurred and late Thursday a Campbell resident reported he saw Sales "driving around Campbell." This call proved negative, the Patrol said.

Sikeston police reported a 1969 Dodge 440 Coronet was stolen between 6 p.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. today from Estes Motor Company on South Main. The car has a tan vinyl top and the bottom is dark bronze colored.

Officers said it is possible that Sales stole the car. Keys to all new and used cars were stolen. It was reported a dealers license plate (D-459C) is missing from the motor company.

THE SEARCH goes on for William Lee Sales, 25, who is wanted for investigation of beating two women living near Matthews Tuesday night. At the edge of a corn field, three miles northwest of Kewanee, Highway Patrol corporal Melvin Moyers, Sikeston, right, and New Madrid County Deputy Sheriff Flip Dees take part in the hunt.

Collective Tax Protest Rejected

BENTON — About 50 individual property owner when he receives notice of an increase in his assessments, is to go before the county board of equalization at its August meeting," Joslyn said. The board will meet Monday at Benton regarding farm land appeals.

Joslyn said the duty of the board of equalization is to keep property of equal value assessed equally.

"This, of course, is a difficult task," Joslyn said. "The county court has requested the state to reassess the county but this cannot be done before 1971 because the state has several requests from other counties in the state wanting equalization assessments."

Joslyn said there "is no rule of thumb" to apply to the exact values of property. He said valuations rest upon the sound judgment of authorities after having considered the evidence respecting the value of various parcels of property to be assessed. Members of the tax association have expressed dissatisfaction because the board of equalization raised only individual cases.

Joslyn said if the individual taxpayer feels aggrieved, he may take an appeal respecting his individual rights (not collectively), to the state tax commission in respect to rulings which may be made by the county board of equalization.

Joslyn then explained that when the assessment in the county is raised more than 10 per cent, the tax authorities must lower the rates to a point where the total revenue realized will be no greater than that which would have been realized at the old rates and old assessments. Members of the tax association contend that although there will be no more revenue received by the county, the burden is placed on fewer taxpayers because only specific properties were increased. The county court said that tax assessments in the county are more uniform now than ever before in the county's history.

"As a practical matter, at the outset Scott County as a whole should pay little, if any, more than was paid before these assessment changes are made," Joslyn said.

Joslyn pointed out that an individual whose assessment fairly reflected the value through the years, should not be hurt. The individual who has been, during past years, coasting along with the advantages of under assessment will feel that he is injured by a sharp increase in his taxes, the attorney said.

Before it was voted to keep the tax association active, Phegley said the group needs to select a man to run for the county court. "Judge (J. E.) Childress (Sikeston), runs the court and the other two are his yes men," Phegley charged.

Phegley also claimed he has an attorney and will appear before the board of appeals Monday and then will go all the way to the supreme court. Association Chairman Louis Heisserer, Illmo, said another meeting will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. at the court house in Benton.

Parker Sings To Rodeo Fans

BY CAROL WERNECK
Television's Fess Parker, television's Daniel Boone, entertained about 4,500 fans Thursday at opening night of the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo.

Parker sang songs including "Gentle On My Mind," "The Gentle Rain" and "Davy Crockett."

The six foot, six inch tall television star whose hair is kept long because of his role, told the audience of a young boy's comment about him.

As Parker was getting off the plane in Paducah Thursday, the boy looked at Parker and said to his mother, "that's the biggest hippie I've ever seen."

Performing with Parker, was the The New Establishment, a

Claudia Mulcahy In Teenage Event

Chosen as a semi-finalist in the Miss Missouri Teenager beauty contest is Miss Claudia Mulcahy, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Mulcahy, 108 Dudley.

She was chosen from among hundreds who entered the contest. The winner will be chosen next Friday, in Kansas City.

The state winner will then enter the America Teenage contest in Palisades Park, N.J.

Miss Mulcahy qualified for the semifinals when she completed a Daily Standard blank describing herself, her country and her state. She is sponsored by the Sikeston Jaycees. She will be a daily guest at the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo.

A junior in high school she is a concert choir member, was treasurer of the sophomore class, member of the Red Peppers and Little Theater, concert band, church choir, and Missouri State Sing-Out group.

Her hobbies include playing the piano, golfing, teaching baton twirling and dancing.

MISS KATE BOONE, Charleston Host House resident, visited Fess Parker, television's Daniel Boone, Thursday. Parker is in Sikeston for the 17th Annual Jaycees Bootheel Rodeo. Miss Boone is a great niece of Daniel Boone.

Two Boones. Make Believe and Real, Visit

By DONNA KOCH
CHARLESTON — Television's Daniel Boone, in the person of actor Fess Parker, met "kinkfolk" of his namesake Thursday afternoon.

Miss Kate Boone, grandniece of the original Daniel Boone, the original one, lives in the Host House, a retirement home.

She became 98 April 25 this year, and is believed to be the oldest vocal music instructor in the United States. She has served her profession for 82 years.

Parker, guest star at the 17th Annual Sikeston Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo, decided to travel to this nearby town to meet Miss Boone.

Miss Boone is blind, and hard of hearing. Her mind and spirit are bright.

During their visit, Parker asked Miss Boone, "Do you tune us in regularly?"

To which Miss Boone replied that, she cannot enjoy the Daniel Boone Show as much as she did when she could see but she listens to the television program often.

Parker lives in California, and Miss Boone told him about the two years she spent in the San Joaquin Valley, in that state.

"I had a pretty good thing there. And in San Francisco, too, although I wasn't there much. In the Valley, I taught music in a school. Mostly boys. I have taught piano, but it was never my strong point."

She said the Valley was beautiful, when she was there, but then, she said, that was many years ago.

Parker asked Miss Boone: "Did you ever hear about Daniel's musical abilities?"

"No," she said. "I never heard anything about that side of his life. That wasn't considered very manly. Kind of sissy, in that day. Daniel was a very masculine fellow."

"I heard his hair was red, an auburn color," Parker asked. "Do you know anything about this, Miss Boone?"

"I think it was," she said. Miss Boone was born in Clinton, Ky., and says:

"A nice little town. Of course, I'm full of prejudice. Everyone north of the Mason-Dixon Line was considered a Yankee. Usually preceded by a small prefix. We all thought of it as one word. Damnyankee."

What do you think about the prejudices in our present world? Parker asked.

"I think there is prejudice all over the country," she said. "I don't think it is any stronger in the South than anywhere else. I

Blackwell Names in Transfer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, listed Mrs. Dorothy Blackwell as his wife in a real estate transaction Dec. 19, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat reported today.

Blackwell, President Pro Tem of the Missouri Senate, stated in an application for a marriage license in Las Vegas, Nev., July 26 he was divorced from Mrs. Blackwell Feb. 17, 1967.

Blackwell, 45, was married to the former Carolyn Sue Ravernsrafft, 26, of Herculaneum, Mo., the same day the license was obtained.

Blackwell has made only one public statement since the marriage and he said nothing about the alleged divorce or the marriage to his former legal secretary.

The Globe-Democrat said according to a general warranty deed filed after the sale, "Earl R. Blackwell and Dorothy A. Blackwell, his wife," and Erb Land Co. sold 346 acres of land to Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Hoosey of St. Louis.

Records of two other property transactions after Feb. 17, 1967, listed Mrs. Dorothy Blackwell as the senator's wife, the newspaper said.

The district director of the internal revenue in St. Louis, said Thursday Blackwell filed a joint tax return with his wife for 1967.

Lt. Gov. William Morris said at a political rally in Marshall, Mo., Thursday night he intended to telephone Blackwell and ask whether he established residence in Nevada to obtain a divorce.

Morris said if Blackwell confirms the six-week residency required to obtain a divorce in Las Vegas he will inform the legislator. "Senator, by provisions of the constitution, you have forfeited your office and are no longer a senator, and I am going to notify the governor to call a special election to fill the vacancy."

The Missouri Constitution requires a senator or representative to reside in the district he represents.

Blackwell, in a statement on a St. Louis television news program this week, attacked the "metropolitan press" for delving into his private life, saying his personal affairs are no concern of the public.

Rep. Fred Williams, D-St. Louis, disagreed with the senator Thursday night, saying Blackwell's "personal conduct and personal morals while an elected official of our state government are the people's business."

Nixon to Discuss Welfare

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon in his speech to the nation tonight is expected to propose a replacement for the U.S. welfare system, including a guaranteed income and incentives to get people off welfare and into jobs.

The President also reportedly will announce a shift in the federal antipoverty program from community action to developing new job opportunities.

The address, to be carried by radio and television, is scheduled for 10 p.m. EDT.

Executive branch and Capitol Hill sources say the President will ask Congress to:

—Guarantee an income of $1,500 a year to the average family of four. This would pioneer payments to wage earners who make below subsistence salaries.

—Take Washington out of job training. The 30-odd counseling, recruitment and training programs would be consolidated and funded by block grants.

—Give states an automatic share of federal tax revenues. about $1 billion the first year.

—Impose a federally-financed minimum of about $30 a month for each of the 6.5 million persons who receive aid to dependent children, the largest and most costly welfare program.

—Provide a minimum benefit of $50 a month in all adult welfare programs such as old-age assistance and aid to the blind and disabled. The federal payment would supplement the present sliding scale. The present share is around $40 and all but seven states now pay average benefits over $50.

The Washington Post said the present controversial aid to dependent children program would be abolished and the federal food stamp program virtually junked. The guaranteed income would carry a price tag of $4 billion annually.

Dexter, National Stars Lose

Only four teams remain in the running for the Babe Ruth invitational baseball title after Poplar Bluff eliminated Dexter 11-1 and Bertrand topped the Sikeston National All-Stars 8-7. Semi-final round action will take place tonight with Parma and the American All-Stars meeting at 7 p.m. and Bertrand and Poplar Bluff at 8:30 p.m. Bates hurled a three hitter at Dexter, giving up on safety in the second and two in the fourth when Dexter scored its only run.

Sikeston To Finals Of Bluff Tourney

POPULAR BLUFF — Sikeston's 9 and 10 year old All-Stars advanced to the finals of the Poplar Bluff invitational baseball tournament at Linc Field last night, beating Piedmont 14-6.

Butler picked up the win, scattering eight hits while his teammates backed him with 11 hits, six of which were extra base knocks.

Jackson led the 11 hit Sikeston barrage with three safeties, including a double and triple. Hampton, Wheeler and Butler tripled while Limbaugh doubled for the Stars who will meet the hosts' stars at 8:30 p.m. tonight for the title.

McGuire had two of Dexters win in relief of Mike Croso while LaPlant suffered the hits. Cards Close Gap

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cardinals overcame their uphill struggle to become the National League East Division leading Cubs Thursday night, defeating San Diego 2-1 behind the five-hit pitching of Mike Torrez.

The victory boosted the Cards to within 10 games of Chicago and a game and a half in back of the second place New York Mets, both idle Thursday.

The Kansas City Royals, meanwhile, suffered the 11th loss in their last 12 starts as the American League's East Division leading Baltimore Orioles bombed them 10-2.

Dave McNally held the royals to five hits while his teammates racked up 12 paced by Boog Powell who drove in four runs on two hits including a homer.

Brooks Robinson hit a solo shot for the Orioles and McNally blasted a two-run homer in his own cause.

The Royals scored in the second on singles by Paul Schaaf and Joe Vito.

The victory was No. 16 for McNally against one loss. Dick Drago was the starter and loser. Kansas City moves into Cleveland tonight for a three-game set with Wally Bunker on the mound against Gary Boyd.

The Cardinals managed only one more hit than San Diego, but it was a Lou Brock fly ball that broke a 1-1 deadlock in the fifth inning allowing Mike Shannon to race home. Shannon singled to open the inning, took second on an infield out and went to third on a wild pitch.

In the second inning Shannon's triple scored Bill White with the Cards first run. The Padres tied it in their half of the inning on Al Ferrara's homer.

Torrez has now won seven games while losing four. The Padres' Al Santorini suffered his 11th setback of the season. He has won four.

Shannon, who was involved in both Card runs, had three hits in four times at bat. Brock Tim McCarver and Torrez got the only other Cardinal hits.

St. Louis now has concluded its season series with the Padres, winning eight out of the 12 games.

The Cards remain on the West Coast, opening a series with the Giants tonight in San Francisco. Nelson Briles will start for St. Louis and Gaylord Perry for the Giants.

with trophies being presented to the four finalists. A sportsmanship and most valuable player award will be made.

Golf Notes

Mrs. John Sikes was hostess for the ladies golf association day Tuesday. She was also the winner of first flight with a gross score of 87.

Mary Bain won the championships flight with a 76. Second flight was won by Thelma Bush with 98 and Mary Kellett won third flight with 120.

Twelve Sikeston golfers took part in a nine hole stroke play at Charleston on Thursday. Bunkers, greens, ditches and elevated trees added strokes for almost all of the one hundred women who played.

Mrs. Lavell Choate was the lowest scorer with a 40. Being of the hostess club she was not in competition.

Five players were grouped at 43 in the top flight. Mary Bain was one of these. Martha Graft was a winner in second flight and Vanita Jones of the local club was a winner in third flight.

Players from Cape Girardeau, Jackson, Malden, Dexter, Cairo and Sikeston took part in the activities.

Following the golf a buffet luncheon was served. The Charleston golfers each year seem to draft some of their non golfing friends who all help to provide a very sumptuous meal. Next Tuesday is the annual handicap tournament for the Sikeston club.

Semi-Finals Set at Puckett

Illmo - Scott City and Parma moved into the semi-finals of the 14th annual Sikeston 11 & 12 year old baseball tournament at Puckett field Thursday night, with I-SC elimination the National All-Stars 3-1 and Bertrand taking a 9-3 defeat from Parma.

Charleson and Chaffee will battle at 7 p.m. tonight in the first semi-final match after which I-SC and Parma meet.

Brooks picked up I-SC's win, giving up five hits and one run in the six inning match that saw Stokes suffer the loss, giving up three hits and three runs, one a homer to Heisserer.

Miller had two of Sikeston's five hits while Winchester doubled for the losers. Danny Crews hurled a no-hitter in the nightcap, betting offensive power from Darrell Ramsey who doubled and tripled and from Don Thatch who singled and homered.

Bertrand got two runs in the first as did Parma, but the winners took the lead in the third and added six in the fifth for its 9 run total.

We didn't want our bug to be a hog. That's why we made it go about 27 miles to a gallon of gas. And why we persuaded it to take pints of oil instead of quarts. Residents to Take Look at City Water System

Residents of Sikeston will have a first-hand opportunity to learn how their water supplies are transported, processed, and distributed when Sikeston Light and Water opens its doors to the public Aug. 16, 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. for it was announced by E. R. Inman director of utilities.

The tours are part of the utility's participation in Willing Water Week, a period set aside for Aug. 10-16 to focus attention on the accomplishments, needs, and future goals of public water utilities throughout the United States.

"There can be no doubt as to the necessity of a dependable supply of safe water to the well-being - and growth - of this community," Inman said. "We feel it is important to let the public see what is being done now, and what is being planned, to assure that our water supplies keep pace with our needs."

Inman pointed out that the demands for water by Americans are skyrocketing. "Public water utilities, which now supply 25 billion gallons of water every day, will be required to double that amount by 1980. Just 30 years from now, America will need three times the amount used today."

Inman noted that the problems that must be overcome in order to meet these water demands can only be solved "if the public is aware of these problems and is willing to support water improvement programs."

Willing Water Week is an annual event sponsored by the American Water Works Association, a national professional and scientific society whose membership consists primarily of utility managers and operators, engineers, and scientists, and government and education men concerned with public water supply.

To meet the overall needs of the Sikeston community the Water Treatment Plant must supply 150 gallons of clear water per person each day. In the major European capitals each person is supplied only about 70 gallons per day.

For residential use in drinking, cooking, laundering, household cleaning, bathing, lawn sprinkling, shaving, backyard swimming pools and car washing, the average American uses 60 gallons of water each day and for these 60 gallons of water delivered to your home by the Sikeston Water Works you pay less than the cost of a package of gum.

For commercial use in cooling systems in stores where we shop and the offices where we work, for water in the dentist's office, water at the local laundry, water at the laundromat, water in schools and hospitals, water in restaurants and at soda fountains, water at the beauty parlor and barber shop - for these uses of water the average citizen uses 20 gallons per day.

For industrial use in manufacturing most of the products we use and for employment and community prosperity, industry needs a great amount of water from the public supply in addition to the water that industry provides for itself. On the average, industry uses from public systems 50 gallons a day per person.

For public use in fire-fighting, sprinkling streets, municipal swimming pools, public drinking fountains, parks and public buildings, water is in keen demand. These and other public uses of water account for about 10 gallons per day per person. There are some inevitable water losses for leaks and breaks in pipelines - some 10 gallons each day per person.

Glenn Jones, J. W. Hurley, Oscar Shaver and Herman Brashear are the operators in charge of the Sikeston Water Plant and Wells. These men have over forty years of experience in water treatment.

When one of them pulls into your drive he may have a fish story to tell or talk about the ball game of the night before, but their visit is of much greater importance. They are there to get one of the many samples taken daily throughout the city. Tests are run on each sample for fluoride, chlorine, alkalinity, iron, ph, magnesium, and total hardness. Three samples are sent to the Department of Public Health at Jefferson City each month for bacteriological analysis, analysis for radioactivity and chemical analysis of water. Reports of these samples are kept at the Water Plant and the Department of Public Health Office in Jefferson City.

Jones, Hurley, Shaver and Brashear look at themselves first as public health officers in their town. Why? Because water affects everyone.

Where does Sikeston get its water? From the ground. Ground water is a great natural resource in Missouri. For example of approximately 900 Public Water Suppliers 80% gets their water from wells and 20% from surface sources. Also millions of acres are irrigated by water from wells and the number of industries which depend on water from wells is unknown but certainly is very large.

Ground water supplies which Sikeston is blessed with has certain advantages over surface supplies. They are as follows: The supply is this locality is close at hand, the water is of more uniform character and relatively free from harmful bacteria in comparison with surface supplies, smaller capital investment usually is required in construction and equipment and the cost of production is generally less.

How is the water treated? Sikeston's water is pumped from five wells through two aerators. In this process the water is brought into intimate contact with air for the accomplishing of one or more of the following purposes: (1) removing or reducing tastes and odors, (2) removing gases such as carbon dioxide and hydrogen sulfide, (3) oxidizing iron and manganese compounds occurring in water, (4) introducing oxygen into the water. From the aerators the water goes to four rapid sand filters where the bacteria is removed along with any flocc or suspended matter. After filtration chlorine is added. Chlorination of public water supplies represents the most important process used in the production of water of a safe, sanitary quality. The process is only as effective as the control that is exercised in insuring that all of the supply continuously receives chlorine in an amount proportional to the flow that will produce effective disinfection. Disinfection refers to the reduction of the bacterial population to a safe level, as contrasted to sterilization, which refers to the destruction of the bacterial population.

Fluoride added to the water supplies to prevent dental cavities in consumers is an established public health practice in this and many other countries.

The water then passes to the clear well. From the clear well the water is picked up by five high service pumps and pumped into the water mains and elevated tanks ready for the consumers.

objected to any change, Then came a calculated delay. Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the majority leader, suggested the Senate take a break from business and welcome Horace M. King, speaker of Great Britain's House of Commons.

Mansfield then suggested a call of the roll, a common delaying tactic, to permit senators to shake hands with the speaker.

While that was going on, Mansfield and a bloc of ABM foes conferred with Mrs. Smith. Among them: Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., sponsor of what had been the key opposition amendment.

That session produced an alliance. Mrs. Smith would propose a second amendment, designed to bar any Safeguard spending, but permitting the Pentagon to go ahead with efforts to invent a better system.

Back on the floor, the Senate voted 89 to 11 against Mrs. Smith's Safeguard ban, argued some more, then got her second proposal.

By that time, the ABM sponsors had cooled toward Mrs. Smith. "This is tragic," said Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss. There was talk of a move to forecast that when it was, Mrs. Smith would vote against the major obstacle to the system, an amendment to bar deployment but permit continued research and testing of Safeguard.

They were right, twice. But they had some anxious moments.

At the outset, advocates and foes of Safeguard took turns praising Mrs. Smith. But Safeguard proponents, who had discounted her original amendment, reacted with concern when Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., proposed blending it with the legislation which was the chief vehicle of Safeguard foes.

His suggestion: alter the Smith amendment to permit continued research and development work on an anti-ballistic missile, just so the Safeguard wasn't the system involved.

Mrs. Smith agreed, but everyone else had to agree, too, in order to make the change in her amendment.

A bit off balance at the prospect of a new alliance, Safeguard proponents quickly

Woman Senator in Thick Of Safeguard Maneuvers

WASHINGTON (AP)—After all the days of technical testimony, the weeks of debate, it was the courtship of Margaret Chase Smith which shaped the crucial hours of the Senate's Safeguard battle.

It made no difference that the silver-haired senator from Maine voted with one set of suitors against the administration missile defense plan, then switched sides in a second vote.

The opposition lost both, and the administration program was approved by the one-vote margin President Nixon himself had forecast as a possibility some five months ago.

Sen. Smith, senior Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee, came to the climactic session with an amendment designed to block all spending for the Safeguard system.

She said she had no confidence in it, and couldn't justify spending money even for research.

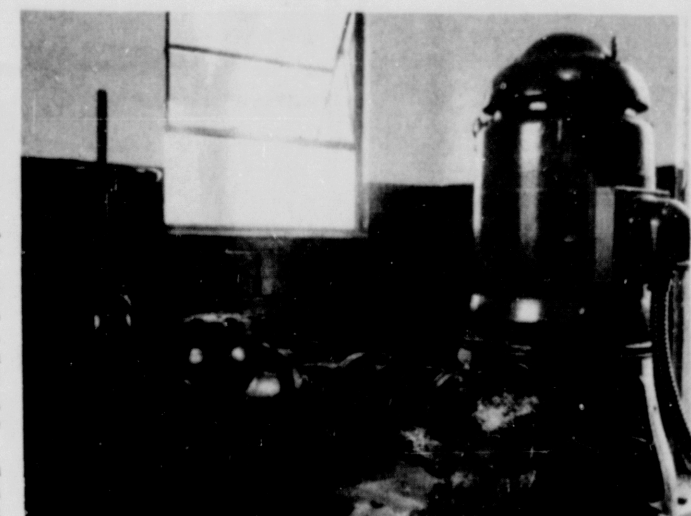

Advocates of the system were certain that amendment would be defeated. And they prevent consideration of the new Smith amendment on grounds it was a little different from the first one. There were huddles between Stennis, Republicans John Tower of Texas and Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Through it all, Mrs. Smith sat, imperturbable, in her front row-left seat. Even as the debate wore on, critics of Safeguard knew their cause was lost.

"What it comes down to is that we're working like hell to lose 50-50 instead of 51-49," said a Democratic aide.

"What it came down to was that ABM foes lost both ways. The first roll call, on Mrs. Smith's proposal, was beaten on a tie vote. It takes a Senate majority to approve an amendment.

DO YOUR FUSES BLOW THEIR TOPS?

The most frequent cause of blown fuses is overloaded circuits.

Many people have added new appliances (which is fine) without adding new circuits (not so good in some cases) to their original wiring.

It happens so gradually that most folks don't realize that their circuits are overloaded until fuses start to blow.

If your fuses are blowing see your electrical contractor right away. And you can have those extra convenience outlets that you've needed for so long put in at the same time.

CHAPTER 2

If You Were the Judge Intent Key to Seant Dancing Attire

Vivacious Vera, a night club dancer, had her clothes designed so that she could be seen in the best places. By the end of her performance, she could be seen in all places. A young stripling, she stripped down to nothing.

The result? She was arrested for violating a law that made it a crime to give a performance "to arouse sexual desires."

"When she finished her dance," the arresting officers assured the judge, "Vera was true to her birthday suit."

"That may be true," answered Vera modestly, "but there's no proof that I aroused anyone's sexual desires as prohibited by the law. In fact, I didn't arouse any such desires. As my clothes dropped off, so did the number of customers in the night club. They all began to leave. Consequently, I'm innocent of the charge."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convict the disappointing stripper?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that the intention to arouse sexual desires was all that was necessary to constitute the crime. While it might have been a slap at her professional standing, noted the judge, Vera's failure or inability to carry out her intent was no defense.

What We Think About It

By Lt. Colonel Norman E. May
of Warwick, Bermuda

"Now, by present estimates, from four to six thousand Americans of draft age have left this country for Canada, two or three thousand more have gone to Europe, and it looks as though many more were preparing to emigrate."

"A bill to stop the draft was recently introduced in the Senate (S. 503), sponsored by a group of senators that runs the gamut from McGovern and Hatfield to Barry Goldwater. I hope it goes through. But I think that when we get rid of the draft we must also drastically cut back the size of the armed forces."

"Yet there is something ever so much bigger and more important than the draft. That bigger thing, of course, is the militarization of our country. Ex-President Eisenhower, in his farewell address, warned us of what he called the military-industrial complex. I am sad to say that we must begin to think of it now as the military-industrial-labor-union complex. What happened under the plea of the Cold War was not alone that we built up the first big peacetime Army in our history but that we institutionalized it. We built, I suppose, the biggest government building in our history to run it, and we institutionalized it."

"I don't think we can live with the present military establishment, and its eighty billion dollar a year budget, and keep America anything like the America we have known in the past. It is corrupting the life of the whole country. It is buying up everything in sight: industries, banks, investors, scientists -- lately it seems also to have bought up the labor union."

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Friday, Aug. 8, the 220th day of 1969. There are 146 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1940, in World War II, German warplanes launched daylight attacks against England, beginning what became known as the Battle of Britain.
On this date: In 1588, British sea forces under Sir Francis Drake destroyed the Spanish Armada. In 1776, John Paul Jones was commissioned a captain in the American Navy. In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte sailed for the island of St. Helena to spend the rest of his life in exile. In 1818, in World War I, Allied forces under Marshal Foch began an offensive which broke the back of German resistance. In 1945, the Soviet Union declared war on Japan, seven days before the Japanese surrender in World War II. In 1953, the United States signed a mutual security pact with the Republic of Korea. Ten years ago — Floods and heavy rains on Formosa caused at least 648 deaths. Five years ago — Turkish planes attacked Greek Cypriot positions on the island of Cyprus. One year ago — Richard Nixon picked Gov. Spiro Agnew of Maryland as his vice presidential running mate and Agnew was approved after a fight on the floor of the Republican convention at Miami Beach, Fla.

DiehlstadtHouse Burns, Firemen Refuse Run

DIEHLSTADT -- A Diehlstadt family lost their house and all belongings about 1 p.m. Monday, when the Charleston fire department, acting on instructions from the city council, refused to answer the fire call.

Burned out were members of the Malcolm Green family, including Mr. and Mrs. Green and five children, ages 6 to 15. Len C. Allen, Mrs. Green's father, said Wednesday the Greens offered on the phone to pay for the fire call, but were turned down by the Charleston department.

A spokesman for the department said the city council has given strict instructions that rural calls will be made only to members of the local rural fire association.

Members must pay dues of $5 per year for the fire service, and agree to pay $100 for each fire call made to their property. This $100 is usually recovered from the member's insurance company.

"We hate to turn down a fire call and let a house burn down," the spokesman said, "but we have no alternative in view of the council's order."

In explaining the reason for the "get-tough policy" on rural fire calls, a member of the council said Wednesday that the cost of purchasing and maintaining a fire truck for rural calls, and of paying the volunteer firemen who make the calls, is too great to be borne by the Charleston taxpayers.

"If people outside the city want fire protection," he added, "they must pay their share of the cost of the service."

In the case of the Greens, Mr. Allen said the house burned so rapidly that by the time the fire truck could arrive it would have been too late to save the property. "My daughter (Mrs. Green) didn't even have time to get a little dog off the back porch, and it was destroyed in the fire," he said.

Allen said Mr. Green works for a construction firm in St. Louis, and comes home on weekends. He said his son-in-law had been doing a lot of work on the house, and was waiting to insure it until all the work was completed. The property was paid for, he added, but there was no insurance at all.

The Green family is staying with the Allens until they can buy furniture and move into a house across the railroad tracks from their former location. "They plan to rebuild," he said.

Allen paid tribute to the people of Diehlstadt, saying "I've only lived here since 1960, but I've never seen a town that was better about helping out people in trouble." He said neighbors have given the Greens a lot of household goods and other necessities since the fire.

He said the fire apparently started in a shed behind the house where the water heater and pump were located, but added that no one knows how it started. A gallon of paint remover in the shed added fuel to the fire, he commented.
